THE HONOR SOCIETY OF JESUIT INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGE HONOR SOCIETIES

WINTER 2011

CHAPTER PRESIDENTS WELCOME NEW PRESIDENTS

Alpha Sigma Nu student leaders provide a valuable collaborative asset to all university presidents. In a year when five U.S. Jesuit universities selected new presidents, a few of our Chapter Presidents took the time to meet their new leaders, to discuss their vision and goals for the future.

Timothy R. Lannon, SJ

(Creighton '71), is Creighton University's 24th president and succeeds John Schlegel, SJ (Creighton '79). Previous to his coming to Creighton, Father Lannon served as President of Saint Joseph's University for eight years. This November, Father Schlegel became the publisher and president of America Magazine. Father Lannon was inducted to AΣN as an undergraduate at Creighton.

Chapter President Nicholas Stukel (Creighton '11) and Creighton President Timothy Lannon, SJ (Creighton '71)

What role would you like to see Alpha Sigma Nu play on this campus? How would you like to see the AΣN tenets of at work at Creighton?

Since coming to Creighton, I have been astonished by Alpha Sigma Nu's impressive presence on campus. I look to members, as leaders on campus, for advice and opinions as I begin my journey at Creighton. As an Alpha Sigma Nu member myself, I see the A Σ N's role at the University defined most noticeably in the students who are part of Creighton's Chapter. As Alpha Sigma Nu moves into the future, I would love to see the development and growth of a proactive, organized project that would enable all Alpha Sigma Nu members – students, faculty, and alumni – to interact with each other.

How can Alpha Sigma Nu contribute to the mission of Jesuit education, and particularly at Creighton? How can A Σ N's role contribute to your overall goals for the next year or two?

Alpha Sigma Nu, through the quality and type of student that the Society seeks out, contributes to the mission of Jesuit education in an organic way. The students inducted into Alpha Sigma Nu at Creighton exemplify what the mission of a Jesuit education is all about. The ideal attributes that I hope to see present in every Creighton graduate are embodied in the student members of Alpha Sigma Nu. I hope to become more involved with Creighton's ASN chapter as I become more familiar with the University. By joining the chapter for some time to talk about Creighton, and the direction in which the University should move into the future, I look forward to hearing members' perspectives.

Jesuit campuses are increasingly culturally and religiously more diverse. How does that inform Jesuit education today? Does this alter the mission of Alpha Sigma Nu?

Catholic with a small 'c,' means 'universal.' As the world around us becomes more diverse, I hope to see Creighton University do the same, to better reflect our nation and our world. Rather than seeing diversity as a potential for conflict, I see it as a way to enhance Creighton's mission. Our mission insists on diversity, and I believe that most of our students, staff, and faculty embrace that opportunity.

Who is your favorite author, philosopher, or spiritual leader? In your opinion what is a "must read" book for Alpha Sigma Nu members?

As far as spiritual leaders go, Jesus makes the top of my list. Not far behind is St. Ignatius of Loyola, whom I see as a brilliant man on many levels. St. Ignatius was able to package his life experience into the Spiritual Exercises, which have persisted throughout the centuries. A "must read" book for Alpha Sigma Nu members is Heroic Leadership, by Chris Lowney (Fordham '04). The book focuses on leadership lessons one can learn from the Jesuits.

What activities, practice, or prayer can you recommend for how Alpha Sigma Nu members can be "contemplatives in action" today?

In terms of prayer or practice I would recommend for A Σ N members, without a moment of hesitation, the Examen. Students today, along with the rest of society, are so busy, and it is difficult to find time to reflect on how God is working in our lives. I would love to see students take just a couple of minutes each day to reflect on the day and how God has been present in it. Through this reflection, students can develop a clearer view of the world, God, and themselves.

We often say that Alpha Sigma Nu is about forming future leaders who inculcate the spirit of St. Ignatius in their work/career, etc. What words of advice do you have for young leaders who are passionate about "going forth to set the world on fire" after graduation?

I am very hopeful about our young leaders going out into the world. I would advise them to continue to embrace the values espoused by Alpha Sigma Nu and the Jesuit values of Creighton University. Do not let your passion and direction stop when you graduate in May. By maintaining the values of $\Delta\Sigma N$ and the Scott Pilarz, SJ (Georgetown '81), was inaugurated as the 23rd president of Marquette University in September. An accomplished teacher, scholar, and administrator, he succeeds Robert A. Wild, SJ (Weston '96). Father Pilarz was inducted while an undergraduate at Georgetown.

Society of Jesus, and allowing those ideals to continue to flourish after graduation, I am certain that students will make a positive impact on the world.

Continues on page 2

DEAR MEMBERS...

What is it about Alpha Sigma Nu that makes it so special, that makes it life and world changing, and that makes it deserving of your support? This fall, Alpha Sigma Nu came alive:

- Peer review of new members at Regis, Saint Joseph's, Xavier, John Carroll, and Georgetown
- Inductions at Loyola Chicago, Holy Cross, Fairfield, John Carroll, and Spring Hill
- Lecture events planned at Loyola Maryland, Spring Hill, Gonzaga, Santa Clara, Creighton, Georgetown, and Marquette
- Chapter retreats planned at Gonzaga, Canisius, and Detroit Mercy
- Service at Loyola Chicago, Canisius, Wheeling Jesuit, Saint Louis, Regis, Santa Clara, Fordham, and LeMoyne
- Students sharing dinner with the Jesuit communities at Gonzaga, Xavier, Creighton, and Fordham

Alpha Sigma Nu is in the business of encouraging these students who personify the Alpha Sigma Nu mission as well as Jesuit education, as described by Father General Adolfo Nicolas:

GIVE TO AΣN

Alpha Sigma Nu induction fees for 2011-12 are $60 per member. We are able to keep that cost affordable thanks to our generous alumni donors. Thank you in advance for your donation to the Sustaining Fund!

And the meaning of change for our institutions is "who our students become," what they value, and what they do later in life and work. To put it another way, in Jesuit education, the depth of learning and imagination encompasses and integrates intellectual rigor with reflection on the experience of reality together with the creative imagination to work toward constructing a more humane, just, sustainable, and faith-filled world.

Adolfo Nicolas, SJ, Mexico City, 2010

We ask you to be change agents for Alpha Sigma Nu. Please give to the Alpha Sigma Nu 2011-12 Sustaining Fund. We appreciate gifts of all sizes. The simplest way to give is online at alphasigmanu.org.

Join Alpha Sigma Nu in its Vision 2012, becoming a dynamic organization of lifetime leaders with Ignatian vision and values:

- \bullet Participate in ASN Alumni Club events like those described in this issue of the newsletter
- 'Like' the Alpha Sigma Nu Facebook page to keep up on A Σ N and Jesuit happenings
- Join the A Σ N LinkedIn group to network with your fellow members
- Visit often at alphasigmanu.org for A Σ N news and events as well as for Jesuit resources

Thank you in advance for your financial support and your personal investment in Alpha Sigma Nu. Gratefully,

Abreca & Cato

Becky Cates (Gonzaga '81) Alpha Sigma Nu Board President

AΣN WRITES 2011

John Baldovin, SJ (Holy Cross '68), Mary Collins, OSB, Joanne Pierce, PhD, Edward Foley, Cap., A Commentary on the Order of Mass of the Roman Missal: New English Translation, Liturgical Press, 2011.

Robert J. Beck, PhD (Marquette '83), co-editor with Henry F. Carey, PhD, International Law, volume of the International Studies Encyclopedia, Wiley-Blackwell, 2010.

Judith V. Boettcher, PhD (Marquette '61), The Online Teaching Survival Guide: Simple and Practical Pedagogical Tips, Jossey-Bass, 2010.

Thomas Patrick Chorton (Saint Louis '67), The First American Republic 1774-1789: The First Fourteen American Presidents Before Washington, AuthorHouse, 2011.

Kevin M. Chun, PhD (Santa Clara '89), Gerardo Marín, PhD (U. of San Francisco '91), and Pamela Balls Organista, PhD, The Psychology of Ethnic Groups in the United States, Sage Publications, 2010.

R. Emmett Curran, PhD (Georgetown '80), A History of Georgetown University, Georgetown University Press, 2010.

Michael A. Genovese, PhD (Loyola Marymount '90), with Victoria A. Farrar-Myers, PhD, Editors, Corruption and American Politics, Cambria Press, 2011.

J. Patrick Hornbeck, II, PhD (Georgetown '02), What is a Lollare? Dissent and Belief in Late Medieval England, Oxford University Press, 2010.

Paul Janowiak, SJ (Loyola Marymount '72), Standing Together in the Community of God: Liturgical Spirituality and the Presence of Christ, Liturgical Press, 2011.

Gary Macy, PhD (Marquette '71), with William T. Ditewig and Phyllis Zagano, PhD, Women Deacons: Past, Present, Future, Paulist Press, 2011.

James Martin, SJ (Weston '97), Between Heaven and Mirth: Why Joy, Humor, and Laughter Are at the Heart of the Spiritual Life, HarperOne, 2011.

Michelle Marvier, PhD (Santa Clara '89), and Peter Kareiva, Conservation, Science: Balancing the Needs of People and Nature, Roberts & Co., 2011.

Mark S. Massa, SJ (U. of Detroit Mercy '72), The American Catholic Revolution: How the '60s Changed the Church Forever, Oxford University Press, 2010.

John Renard, PhD (Saint Louis '79), Tales of God's Friends: Islamic Hagiography in Translation, University of California Press, 2010.

Charles M. Shelton, SJ (Saint Louis '72), The Gratitude Factor: Enhancing Your Life through Grateful Living, Hidden Spring, 2010.

John Sheveland, PhD (Gonzaga '09), Piety and Responsibility, Ashgate, 2011.

Dayle M. Smith, PhD (Santa Clara '11), and Arthur Bell, Developing Leadership Abilities, Prentice Hall, 2010.

Eleonore Stump, PhD (Saint Louis '01), Wandering in Darkness: Narrative and the Problem of Suffering, Oxford University Press, 2010.

Urban C. von Wahlde, PhD (Marquette '73), A Commentary of the Gospel and Letters of John (a 3 volume set), Wm. Eerdmans Publishers, 2010.

Kevin J. Wetmore, Jr., PhD (Loyola Marymount '10), Catholic Theatre and Drama: Critical Essays, McFarland and Company, 2010.

STAY CONNECTED WITH AΣN!

- Update your contact and professional information in the Member DirectoryGo to www.alphasigmanu.org
 Log on to the member directory using the password JESUIT (all caps)
 Update your information including email, so we can notify you of local events
- Become a fan of the Alpha Sigma Nu Facebook page Stay informed on alumni events and news from student Chapters Find links to articles on Jesuit higher education and other Jesuit programs, and opportunities for service and advocacy.
- Join the Alpha Sigma Nu LinkedIn group Now over 1,300 members connected by membership in the Society Connect with Jesuit-educated employers and job-seekers

Alpha Sigma Ru

THE HONOR SOCIETY OF JESUIT INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

707 N. 11th Street #330 P.O. Box 1881 Milwaukee, WI 53201-1881

Fax: 414-288-3259 www.AlphaSigmaNu.org

Phone: 414-288-7542

Kate Gaertner, Executive Director Email: kate.gaertner@marquette.edu

Mary Wacker, Associate Director
Email: mary.wacker@marquette.edu

JESUIT UNIVERSITIES WELCOME NEW PRESIDENTS CONT.

Antoine M. Garibaldi, PhD, is the first lay president of the University of Detroit Mercy. Prior to his appointment at University of Detroit Mercy, he was the sixth President of Gannon University from 2001-2010. He has served as Senior Fellow in the Office of the Vice President for Collaborations and Corporate Secretary at the Educational Testing Service, Provost and Professor of Education at Howard University, and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Xavier University of Louisiana. Dr. Garibaldi succeeds Gerard L. Stockhausen, SJ (U. Of Detroit Mercy '01), Socius/Executive Secretary to the President and Director of Planning for the Jesuit Conference.

What role would you like to see Alpha Sigma Nu play on this campus? How would you like to see the ASN tenets of at work at the University of Detroit

On campus, there are several discipline specific organizations that $A\Sigma N$ could partner with to broaden its outreach to campus students, whether it entails a joint meeting to discuss service projects or a chance for the members of each group to get to know each other. I would like to see $A\Sigma N$ positively influence students to strive not only for better education, but also for a sense of belonging and giving back. A feature in the Varsity News- what it means to be selected- would be an excellent opportunity to educate students about $A\Sigma N$'s program and highlight the benefits of membership. I would like to see $A\Sigma N$ show students that membership, and life beyond college, requires being a well-rounded person. When students are actively involved in their professions, they will realize how important leadership skills are that come from being part of a group and active in service.

How can Alpha Sigma Nu contribute to the mission of Jesuit education, and particularly at UDM? How can AΣN's role at UDM contribute to your overall goals for the next year or two?

Service and a commitment to faith are the best ways A Σ N can contribute to the Jesuit mission and our mission. Our mission states that we want our students to be intellectual, ethical, spiritual, and aware of society's progress. Because $A\Sigma N$ strives to develop a whole person who is knowledgeable and devoted to the community, prayer, and service, it essentially recognizes students who live our mission. And the fact that members do not have to be Catholic is particularly great because it promotes social and societal awareness in our global world.

The best way $A\Sigma N$ can contribute to my goals over the next few years would be through active involvement. I want to see students engaged on campus, interacting with each other and staff. I don't want them to miss what we have to offer: lectures and spiritual celebrations that will enlighten their minds. I love to interact with students; in meetings with students this summer I asked what was on their mind. They said, and I agree, they would like to see more evening activities to keep our students involved with our events all day, every day. Anything that will keep students involved on campus is what A Σ N can do. The magic word is involvement.

Chapter President Chelsea Smialek (U. of Detroit Mercy '10) and Antoine Garibaldi, PhD

Our campuses are increasingly culturally and religiously more diverse. How does that inform Jesuit education today?

Does this alter the mission of Alpha Sigma Nu?

Diversity is a natural part of our tradition and the tradition of being Catholicuniversal, all are welcome. A large number of our students in Catholic schools are not Catholic and this openness is important for the Jesuit and Mercy tradition.

The word "urban" is in our mission, which is a signal to diversity and means "a world, mix of traditions." We should be proud that $A\Sigma N$ and the Jesuit tradition encourage and welcome all to participate. We're ranked as the eighth most diverse school of Jesuit universities out of twenty-eight. That's something to be proud of and continue to strive for.

Who is your favorite author, philosopher, spiritual leader, etc.? In your opinion, what is a "must read" book for Alpha Sigma Nu members?

There isn't a special book that I'd promote. I was in the seminary for eight and a half years and those years of education, prayer, and work exposed me to many theologians, different aspects of prayer and recognition of religion in the world. Every now and then I pick up something of interest that illustrates the Jesuit tradition: a perfect mix of theology and diversity. If I had to pick something for students to read, I'd suggest Say You're One of Them by Uwem Akpan, SJ (Gonzaga '97), a Nigerian Jesuit. It tells, through five short stories, the challenges African children experience and how they cope with their situations. This book will make you stop and think, but more importantly, it helps us focus on how our contributions and our actions can help others.

What activities, practice, or prayer can you recommend for how Alpha Sigma Nu members can be "contemplatives in action" today?

There are opportunities like daily Mass and short student retreats that would not only help any student, but would be particularly useful to the student leaders of A Σ N. They provide students the chance to become attuned to themselves and challenge their ideas.

We often say that Alpha Sigma Nu is about forming future leaders who inculcate the spirit of St. Ignatius in their work/career, etc. What words of advice do you have for young leaders who are passionate about "going forth to set the world on fire" after graduation?

Develop good leadership skills, find something you enjoy and want to do, and then go with it. Make a commitment to academics; you will use your experiences as a student later on in life. Multi-tasking and relationship building are both things that you learn as a student and use throughout your life. More importantly, patience and conscientiousness are cornerstones of success and leadership.

Richard Allen Beyer is the ninth president of Wheeling Jesuit University. President Beyer joins WJU from Trimble Navigation Ltd., a leading provider of global positioning solutions for commercial markets, where he served as corporate vice president and member of the executive committee. He has also worked with higher education institutions on financial modeling, board governance and strategic

What role would you like to see Alpha Sigma Nu play on this campus? How would you like to see the A Σ N tenets of at work at Wheeling Jesuit?

We have a tremendous history of student community service. Alpha Sigma Nu, because of the work that the Chapter does and the opportunities for service the Chapter provides in the Bread Run, emphasizes the critical role service has in Jesuit education. I think really it is more about continuing to expand $A\Sigma N$'s presence on campus. When we take a look at our strategic plan, we are looking at doubling the size of our school in the next five years. As an important part of this plan, the Alpha Sigma Nu Chapter will double in size as well and develop and sustain a second major service program to help our community, and to strengthen the University. I would like to see an increased presence in terms of the $\ensuremath{\mathsf{A}\Sigma\mathsf{N}}$ purpose as well an increased consciousness of membership as a model and goal.

Wheeling Jesuit President Richard Beyer (Wheeling Jesuit '11) and Chapter President Nathan Ogonek (Wheeling Jesuit '11)

How can Alpha Sigma Nu contribute to the mission of Jesuit education, and particularly at Wheeling Jesuit? How can AΣN's role at contribute to your overall goals for the next year or two?

Finding God in all things is not just doing service, the deeper thinking about what goes into service is required. Our Jesuit mission calls our students to move beyond the service, to be men and women for and with others.

As the University grows, strengthening our Catholic, Jesuit mission will be at the forefront of our actions. I think Alpha Sigma Nu can play a very critical role. It is important that we grow the in the right way and achieve success consistent with our mission. Chapter members can be the messengers of our mission by reaching out and inviting students to participate in service and in ASN, informally talking about their experiences. Having an increased Alpha Sigma Nu presence on campus will be very strategic, especially over the next year or two.

Our campuses are increasingly culturally and religiously more diverse. How does that inform Jesuit education today? Does this alter the mission of Alpha Sigma Nu?

We are focused on educating the whole person and educating women and men for service to others. I think that goes beyond a particular religion; we have the opportunity to touch all of our students so that they leave Wheeling Jesuit with not only an education, but an Ignatian spiritual foundation.

Who is your favorite author, philosopher, spiritual leader, etc.? In your opinion what is a "must read" book for Alpha Sigma Nu members?

I would recommend A Jesuit Guide to Almost Everything by James Martin, SJ (Weston '97), and Chris Lowney's (Fordham '04) Heroic Leadership.

What activities, practice, or prayer can you recommend for how Alpha Sigma Nu members can be "contemplatives in action" today?

Being conscious of your life and trying to be conscious of seeing God in all things. I know when the world is going crazy and I need to find some inner peace, I recite peace, love, and compassion. Those are just three great words to help put things

We often say that Alpha Sigma Nu is about forming future leaders who inculcate the spirit of St. Ignatius in their work/career, etc. What words of advice do you have for young leaders who are passionate about "going forth to set the world on fire" after graduation?

Young leaders, I encourage you to dream, dream big. With your foundation, built of Ignatian spiritual development and Jesuit education, coupled with high aspirations, our graduates can reach new heights and address our world's challenges.

MEET NEW SCRANTON PRESIDENT KEVIN QUINN, SJ

Chapter President Rosemary Shaver (U. of Scranton '11) reports on the new presidency of University of Scranton President Kevin P. Quinn, SJ (Santa Clara

Father Quinn was inaugurated as the 25th president of The University of Scranton

Friday, September 16. During his inaugural address, he offered his vision for The University of Scranton as a twenty-first century Jesuit University. As the economic burden of a college education rises, he noted that Jesuit institutions of higher education are in the unique position to reimage their mission. Father Quinn envisions these differences as providing a competitive edge, and specifically highlighted the role of service as the cornerstone of Ignatian spirituality, "In a Jesuit institution of higher education, the knowledge gained through inquiry brings with it the responsibility of acting justly for the common good. But the ethical ideal proposed by our schools should be of a higher level than that of liberal education."

Scranton President Kevin Quinn, SJ (Santa Clara '09) and Chapter President Rosemary Shaver (Scranton '11)

Service was a thematic element throughout inauguration week. The University hosted a celebration of Service Day. Students and faculty reached out to the Scranton community through service projects which included events from the clean-up a local little league field to restocking shelves at a local food bank.

Father Quinn indicated that there is a place for Alpha Sigma Nu in this equation, and expressed his intention to create an institute at the University dedicated to the promotion of Jesuit mission and Catholic identity. Although the bulk of the Center's work will be organized by a faculty steering committee, he hopes that Scranton's Alpha Sigma Nu Chapter will be a resource for the center for student input.

Alpha Sigma Nu can expand its role in planning retreats and service trips. Father Quinn noted the University's robust retreat program is essential to the student population's connection with Jesuit ideals. He hopes these ideals will transfer to life beyond college as students enter the workforce...Jesuit spirituality is spirituality for the real world.

Father Quinn will spend some time getting to know the university community. He will continue the five year strategic plan that is now in its second year. Visible in the construction projects that are now dominating the campus landscape, the University's ambitious strategic plan pursues expansion and deeper connection with Jesuit roots.

"Jesuit education is different," Father Quinn said, "I think we have a very unique and exciting idea here."

Gregory Carlson, SJ (Creighton '94), Kathleen Kastl (Creighton '11), Timothy Lannon, SJ (Creighton '71), Julie Thompson (Creighton '11), John P. Curtin, MD, Anne McGuire (Creighton '72), Thomas Shanahan, SJ (Creighton '97), Richard Rossi (Creighton '99), Gary Batenhorst (Creighton '71)

ALUMNI CLUB CONTACTS

kc@alphasigmanu.org

BALTIMORE

baltimore@alphasigmanu.org

BOSTON

Michael Heinecke (Wheeling Jesuit '97) boston@alphasigmanu.org

BUFFALO Mary Lou Wyrobek (Canisius '85) buffalo@alphasigmanu.org

CHICAGO Anne Divita Kopacz

(Loyola Chicago '02) chicago@alphasigmanu.org

CLEVELAND Elaine Hocevar (John Carroll '97)

cleveland@alphasigmanu.org

DENVER Kelly Darby (Regis '05) denver@alphasigmanu.org KANSAS CITY Joe Pierron (Rockhurst '67)

LOS ANGELES Patrick Cain (LMU '78)

la@alphasigmanu.org MILWAUKEE DANIHY Jason Rae

scranton@alphasigmanu.org OMAHA

Anne McGuire (Creighton '72)

omaha@alphasigmanu.org

NEW YORK

Cassandra Clark

(Holy Cross '01)

nyc@alphasigmanu.org

SCRANTON

Frank Goskowski

(Scranton '74)

To contact alumni club presidents, visit www.AlphaSigmaNu.org.

(Marquette '08)

danihy@alphasigmanu.org

ALUMNI CLUB NEWS

The Cleveland Club members gathered at the fall meeting of the Loyola Club November 9 to hear Georgetown University President, John J. DeGioia, PhD

BALTIMORE

The Loyola Maryland Chapter welcomed AΣN alumni and the Loyola community to the first annual Alpha Sigma Nu Faith & Culture Lecture, featuring Brian Haig on "How Fiction has Changed Human History" October 25. Haig discussed the impact of fiction on how readers understand their political and social worlds, shaping future behavior. A reception followed the lecture.

Student and alumni members gathered for the annual Fall Fellowship Mass and reception September 25, co-sponsored by the Danihy Alumni Club and Marquette's Alpha Sigma Nu Student Chapter. Faculty Adviser Jeffrey LaBelle, SJ (Marquette '08), presided at the Mass, held in the Chapel of the Holy Family in the Alumni Memorial Union.

DENVER

The Denver Club has enjoyed a busy fall calendar. They gathered for a purely social evening September 16 for networking and conversation. Then the AΣN Club featured Charles M. Shelton, SJ (Saint Louis '72), Professor of Psychology at Regis, who discussed his new book, The Gratitude Factor at the October 25 Alumni Club dinner. Attendees were asked to bring a new toy or item of clothing for the annual Fr. Woody Christmas Party for the homeless.

Lauren Lhotsky (Loyola Maryland '11), Brian Haig, Frank Haig, SJ (Wheeling Jesuit '66)

LOS ANGELES

The Loyola Marymount Chapter hosted LA Club members and other guests at a reception celebrating Jesuit Symposia: The 1st Annual Conference on Jesuit Higher Education October 12. The theme of the Symposia was Ignatian Imagination in the World: The Future of Education, Faith and Justice. A number of interesting lectures and roundtables preceded the reception at LMU's William H. Hannon Library.

Never underestimate the power of prayer and getting a second medical opinion, said John P. Curtin, MD, internationally known gynecologic oncologist, at the 53rd Annual Alpha Sigma Nu and 22nd Annual Thomas Timothy Smith, MD, joint lecture. The September 28 event was part of Inaugural Week leading to the inauguration of Timothy R. Lannon, SJ (Creighton '71), as University President. Dr. Curtin's speech, entitled "A Physician's Reflection on Education: Lifelong Learning," focused on the personal side of his profession and reflected on his medical training, his patient-management style, his own experiences as a patient, and the value of his formative Creighton experience. The Smith lecture series is named after Thomas Timothy Smith, MD (Creighton '66), an otolaryngologist who dedicated himself extensively to the education of students, residents and physicians, and played a leadership role in the planning of what today is the Boys Town National Research Hospital.

Why Does the Pope-or Anyone Else-Need an Astronomer? Brother Guy Consolmagno, SJ, coordinator for public relations at the Vatican Observatory and curator of the Vatican meteorite collection, addressed this and other topics at the Georgetown Chapter and DC area alumni gathering November 16 at Georgetown. Brother Consolmagno is a planetary scientist and Curator of Meteorites at the Vatican Observatory where he studies the physics of meteorites and asteroids. The roots of the Vatican Observatory go back to the Gregorian Reform of the Calendar in 1582, and it has been part of an extensive history of Church support for astronomy. Its mission is to show that is no inherent conflict between science and religion.

Front row: Alexander Ghincea (Regis '10), Karen Key (Regis '11), Rachelle Lauck (Regis '08), Kelly Marie Darby (Regis '05) Second row: Jacquelyn Ganfield (Regis '10), Sarah Magill (Regis '10), Ashton Nuvolini (Regis '09), Leslie Brezina (Regis '01), Dee Vellinga (Regis '99), Sally Cordrey (Regis '06) Back row: Shannon Quirk (Regis '10), Charles Shelton, SJ (Saint Louis '72)

ΑΣN WINTER 2011 2 ΑΣN WINTER 2011 3

ST. LOUIS

David Frenzia

(St. Louis '06)

stlouis@alphasigmanu.org

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Jack Landers

(Rockhurst '62)

dc@alphasigmanu.org

INDUCTION RITUAL UPDATED

A dedicated focus on the Alpha Sigma Nu mission, and that of Jesuit education. An opening induction prayer. More contemporary language. The newly revised Ritual of Induction meets all these benchmarks set by the Alpha Sigma Nu Board of Directors and Faculty Advisers.

The Alpha Sigma Nu Ritual of Induction informs inductees and their guests of the history, mission, and purpose of the Society; describes the Alpha Sigma Nu tenets of Scholarship, Loyalty, and Service; formally inducts the new members; congratulates the inductees on living these tenets; and asks for their commitment to these values in the future.

Taylor Calderone (Loyola Maryland '06), a former Chapter president and current board member, worked on the revision. "I think the new Loyalty description is our most significant contribution, especially the inclusion of the directives of the Fathers General on the mission of Jesuit higher education."

Inspired by the vision and values of The Society of Jesus and the teachings of its Fathers General, you, as new members of Alpha Sigma Nu, are invited to further develop a depth of thought and imagination in the Ignatian tradition that will transform your minds and hearts. You will become collaborators with the Society of Jesus in the service of faith and the promotion of justice, with a special care for the marginalized and the poor. To be loyal to these ideals means developing a full engagement in the real with a deep sense of decency and responsibility to truth and justice. It will always entail personal integrity as well as an abiding effort to advance the good of society and the well-being of all.

Spring Hill College Faculty Adviser Michael Williams, SJ (Spring Hill '01), worked with Calderone on the Ritual. "The essential message of the Ritual is that membership is an ongoing commitment to Ignatian values and to the mission of Jesuit education. We infused the Ritual with messages about those values and the Alpha Sigma Nu vision, while noting rightly that Scholarship is the first criterion, and service ever important. The new Induction Prayer asks for the Lord's blessing and guidance on this commitment."

Lord,

May this induction ceremony today be a life-long reminder of the ideals of Jesuit education that have been so firmly rooted in the mission of the Society of Jesus and our university.

And may your grace continue to fill our lives that we may always be challenged to be leaders who are examples of excellence and integrity,

Generous in their compassion, and committed to serving others for your greater glory.

Excerpt from the Induction prayer by Maureen Bergen

The Chapter Officers at Loyola University Chicago, Fairfield University, and College of the Holy Cross were the first to use the new Ritual of Induction at their fall induction ceremonies. The Ritual can be found on the Chapters & Resources page at alphasigmanu.org.

(Left to right) Brian M. Quigley (Holy Cross '11), Michael L. Rogers (Holy Cross '11), Amanda Rose Marello (Holy Cross '11), Julia I. Bandini (Holy Cross '11), Michael C. McFarland, SJ (Gonzaga '99), and Paul F. Harman, SJ (Holy Cross '09)

INTERNATIONAL DONORS

Donations from outside the United States are worth more if they are made online. Due to U.S. regulations in place since 2001, hefty fees are charged to process foreign checks. Your donations from Canada, Europe and Asia go further when you make them online at alphasigmanu.org – simply click the "Donate" button on the web!

THE 2011 ALPHA SIGMA NU BOOK AWARDS

Alpha Sigma Nu and the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities are pleased to announce the winners of the 2011 Alpha Sigma Nu Book Awards. The awards, honoring scholarly books published in 2008, 2009 and 2010 in the category of The Humanities, recognize works in history, literature, philosophy, and theology.

The Book Awards honor excellence in Jesuit university faculty writing in a three-year cycle which rotates through the disciplines of Professional Studies, Humanities and the Natural Sciences. The entry deadline for the 2012 Awards in the category of the Sciences is March 1, 2012 with the winners announced in October of 2012. Entry forms and further information on the awards can be found at alphasigmanu.org/book_awards.

The Elusive God: Reorienting Religious Epistemology

(Cambridge University Press, 2008)
Paul K. Moser, PhD
Professor and Chairperson, Department of Philosophy, Loyola University Chicago

Three questions motivate this book's account of evidence for the existence of God: If God's existence is hidden, why suppose He exists at all? If God exists, why is He hidden, particularly if God seeks to communicate with people? And, what are the implications of divine hiddenness for philosophy, theology, and religion's supposed knowledge of God? Moser returns frequently to the idea that if revelation means anything it surely means that God, for reasons we struggle to grasp, likely has good reasons to dodge probing and skeptical minds that would so like to be able to pinpoint and box Him in. This lesson generates a seismic shift in the understanding of evidence and knowledge of divine reality. The result is a reorienting of religious epistemology to accommodate the character and purposes of an authoritative, perfectly loving God.

Dr. Moser's research interests include epistemology, metaphilosophy, and the philosophy of religion. He is a series editor for the new Cambridge University Press Series on Religion, Philosophy, and Society, the Oxford University Press "Handbooks of Philosophy," and the Routledge "Contemporary Introductions to Philosophy."

On winning the award: "I am deeply honored by this award, and I hope that my book can extend the Jesuit educational mission in at least a modest way. My work on the book benefitted immensely from students and colleagues at Loyola University Chicago, particularly in its Department of Philosophy."

(New York University Press, 2008) Ruben Rosario Rodriguez, PhD Associate Professor, Department of Theological Studies, Saint Louis University

Dr. Rodríguez explores the concept of mestizaje (hybridization) to creatively re-envision Latin American liberation theology in terms that embrace the entire theological enterprise—be it public or confessional, Roman Catholic or Protestant, feminist or broadly humanist. Taking the work of other U.S. Latin American theologians such as Virgilio Elizondo and María Isasi-Díaz as his point of departure, Rodríguez argues that the two most common uses of mestizaje—the historical and biological mixing of two or more groups of people, and the complex interaction of two or more cultures—have been used to develop a uniquely Christian anthropology based in Christ's own distinctively mestizo identity. Rodríguez's meticulous readings of diverse theological traditions—Calvinist as well as Catholic, mainline Protestant as well as evangelical and pentecostal, orthodox doctrine as well as contemporary liberationist—impress as broad in scope and deep in understanding.

Dr. Rosario serves on the advisory boards for the Latin American Studies and the Latino Studies Certificate Programs, and is the director of the Mev Puleo Scholarship in Latin American Theology and Culture.

RACISM AND GOD-TALK

A LATINO/A PERSPECTIVE RUBÉN ROSARIO RODRÍGUEZ

On winning this award: "As a Presbyterian in the Calvinist tradition, it is at a Jesuit university where my work has been encouraged and welcomed. As I immersed myself in the Jesuit intellectual and spiritual mission, I have found myself to be an advocate for Jesuit education. I am touched that this prize validates this commitment.

The Neural Sublime: Cognitive Theories and Romantic Texts

(Johns Hopkins University Press, 2010) Alan Richardson, PhD Professor of English, Boston College

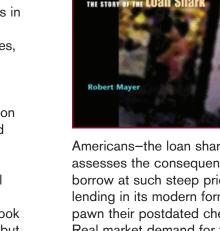

Dr. Richardson demonstrates how developments in the neurosciences can transform the study of literary history. He presents six exemplary studies, each exploring a different intersection of Romanticism and the sciences of the mind and brain: the experience of the sublime and the neuroscience of illusion; the Romantic imagination and visual imaging; the figure of apostrophe and linguistic theory; fictional representations of the mind and "theory of mind" theory; depictions of sibling incest and neo-Darwinian theories of mental behavior; and representations of female speech and cognitive developmental psychology. He combines elements of new historicist analysis with original models for understanding language, subjectivity, and social behavior. This book stands out not only in its complexity and thorough interdisciplinary research, but also because it takes risks and opens up for the literary critic new ways of discussing literature.

Dr. Richardson specializes in British Romantic literature and culture, literature and empire, poetics, and early children's literature. He is the British series editor for the Houghton Mifflin New Riverside Editions and maintains the award-winning website Literature, Cognition and the Brain.

On winning the award: "I am both honored and greatly encouraged in receiving the Alpha Sigma Nu Book Award. My book belongs to an exciting and still emerging new field, cognitive literary studies, and I accept the award on behalf of all scholars and critics working with me to develop this new approach to reading and understanding literature."

Quick Cash: The Story of the Loan Shark

(Northern Illinois University Press, 2010) Robert Mayer, PhD Professor, Political Science Department, Loyola University Chicago

With the financial and real estate crises of the late 2000's, subprime mortgage lenders and the homeowners they targeted have been a hot topic and a source of outrage. While financial regulation may help prevent this sort of calamity from happening in the future, lawmakers have largely chosen to ignore another kind of monetary predator who continues to prey upon working class

Americans—the loan shark. Mayer presents the history of payday lending and assesses the consequences of high-interest lending—both for the people who borrow at such steep prices and for society as a whole. He argues that payday lending in its modern form consistently traps many of the wage earners who pawn their postdated checks, leaving them worse off than they were before. Real market demand for these loans and the inability of less rapacious providers to meet that demand have far-reaching implications for social and economic structures.

Professor Mayer teaches courses on political theory (conservatism, socialism, democratic theory, obligation & resistance) and comparative politics (revolution, terrorism, dictatorship, democracy, political ideologies).

On winning the Award: "Teaching this topic to students at a Jesuit institution helped me to develop my ideas and I am grateful to Alpha Sigma Nu for recognizing a book that is a fruit of the tree of Jesuit education."

WHAT'S MY PASSWORD?

You will get the latest invitations and announcements about Alumni Club events in your area by updating your home address and email with us on the web. Go to alphasigmanu.org and click on the Member Directory. You can log in to the directory with the common member password: JESUIT.