FATHER GENERAL ARTURO SOSA ON THE INTELLECTUAL APOSTOLATE

By Kate Gaertner, Executive Director, Alpha Sigma Nu

Like many of you, I anxiously awaited the news from the 36th General Congregation of the Society of Jesus. Who would be the new Father General? What would he see as his priorities? How will his leadership guide us all, and in particular, Alpha Sigma Nu? On October 16, 2016, the Congregation elected Father Arturo Sosa Abascal, SJ, as Superior General.

Born in Venezuela, Father Sosa has spent much of his life as a Jesuit in academia, as professor and rector, with his research and teaching in political science. Father Sosa obtained a licentiate in philosophy from l'Università Cattolica Andrés Bello in 1972. He later obtained a doctorate in political science from l'Università Centrale del Venezuela in 1990.

So, it is not surprising that in two of Father Sosa's initial major speeches, he chose to focus on the "intellectual apostolate" of the Society of Jesus. At the University of Antonio Ruiz de Montoya in Lima, Peru, he explained:

What we call the intellectual apostolate is central to the mission of the Society today, as it has been from its inception. The complexity of the world's problems makes intellectual reflection even more urgent and central, in order to render quality service to humanity... The Society of Jesus, from its birth, has been associated with spiritual depth, the intellectual apostolate, closeness to the poor, and an intellectual understanding of the human processes.

Today, it confirms this way of proceeding, which leads to a deepening commitment in the intellectual apostolate.

Father Sosa reiterated that the Jesuits were founded by men studying at a university, and that they have always emphasized that forming the intellect is as critical as spiritual formation, resulting in work that studies the human condition of suffering and addresses the causes of that condition – a faith that promotes justice.

"Our intellectual work is 'apostolic' work when we see it and when we perform it in light of these four characteristics described by Father Sosa (see red box on page 2), and these four characteristics are not always the way we think of the academy," explains Michael Garanzini, SJ (Saint Louis '71), Secretary for Higher Education for the Society of Jesus. "When it is concerned with real people and real world problems, when it operates for a 'bigger purpose' under a larger vision of human potential and the purpose of our human communities, this work is apostolic."

As did Fathers General Kolvenbach and Nicolás before him, Father Sosa reminds us that the intellectual apostolate must be present in all the works of the Jesuits...in the university and beyond, "In short, intellectual work is an apostolate if it keeps alive the link between deep reflection, concern for peoples' lives, and the building of a more human and Christian world."

As a Jesuit university alumna, his words resonate. My professors, having been 'formed' as Jesuits, sought not only to educate us but to train us to look beyond the university to our communities and their human needs...to see and act on the connection between knowledge and action.

"Acting without thinking," says Father Sosa, "becomes so often useless and even dangerous. Thinking detached from the reality of social and pastoral action is a futile and dangerous exercise."

How is Father Sosa speaking to Alpha Sigma Nu and its over 70,000 members living in the world today? While his speeches at Vidyajyoti College of Theology in Dehli, India, and the University of Antonio Ruiz de Montoya in Lima, Peru, were geographically far afield from our Chapters and from the vast majority of our members, Father Sosa speaks very specifically to the values of our Jesuit honor society:

I am convinced that creation is not over yet, and that, we human beings, are the creators responsible for ensuring that people can find the conditions suitable for a dignified life... This is possible if each person understands himself as part of a community and experiences relationships with others as a dimension of himself. This experience impels one to make one's own contribution to the common good regardless of age, ability, education, social status, ideology, culture, religion, or the colour of one's skin.

At our induction, we pledged to be committed to intellectual integrity and the pursuit of wisdom, and to be loyal to the moral, social, and religious ideals of our Jesuit education. We committed ourselves to the well-being of others and to serving them. We vowed to do all of this for the greater honor and glory of God. Clearly, we committed ourselves to the intellectual apostolate.

There is great power in our pledge and in our collective commitment. Let us be a community of creators.. 🙏

Intellectual Work is an Apostolate:

1 When it is accomplished in the world, that is, when it finds meaning outside itself, by not being enclosed in its interest but by finding meaning in people, themes, and the problems of humanity, and consequently of the Church.

2 When it has an evangelical orientation, because it is affected by what happens to human beings and creation. Intellectual work is an apostolate because it is clearly and explicitly directed towards the constructions of a world closer to the characteristics of the Kingdom of God.

3 When one is aware of the need to carry out this work in collaboration with others. Intellectual work is an apostolate when it is carried out in the open...When it is able to interact with other disciplines, enrich other perspectives and visions of the world, science and culture.

4 Intellectual work in the Society is apostolate when it is experienced as a received mission, as a sending. As a result, it is performed as a service. It does not seek recognition or glory from people or institutions. It is an intellectual effort made by apostles, that is to say, by persons, Jesuits or others, men or women, who live it as a mission.

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY ANDALUCIA – 2017 CHAPTER OF THE YEAR

When the Board of Alpha Sigma Nu celebrated the first induction of the new Chapter at Loyola Andalucia, little did they know that just seven months later, they would be congratulating this nascent Chapter as the 2017 Chapter of the Year!

The Alpha Sigma Nu Chapter of the Year Award honors the Chapter whose programming for the year has been truly outstanding in embodying, in meaningful and innovative ways, the tenets of scholarship, loyalty, and service. The LUA Chapter impressed the selection committee with a strong service component focusing on refugees, executive boards working on two campuses, and its critical partnership with Campus Ministry.

Their programs included:

- Conference on refugees
- Lecture on the Jesuits in Paraguay
- Starting the "Loyola Green Club"
- Initiating a host program to match members with international students
- Holding a school supply drive for Moroccan and Algerian refugees
- Spiritual Exercises Weekend Retreat for E-board

- Working to promote international collaboration with Marquette and Sogang
- Visiting all freshmen classes to set AΣN membership as a goal

Congratulations to Faculty Adviser Borja Martin Garrido (Loyola Andalucia '16), Ignacio Garrido Cruz (Loyola Andalucia '16), Francisco de Santiago Ruiz (Loyola Andalucia '16), Julia Linares Martin (Loyola Andalucia '16), and their fellow Chapter officers on receiving AΣN's fourth annual Chapter of the Year Award. "This has been such an honor for us," said Francisco. "We have worked to take the best of Alpha Sigma Nu and put it together with the culture and concerns in Spain and in Europe. We are committed to strengthening the Chapter to ensure future generations of LUA members."

Kate Gaertner (Marquette '04), Executive Director of AΣN, presented the award to Borja Martin Garrido and Ignacio Garrido Cruz, along with Thomas Regan, SJ and Michael Garanzini, SJ.

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

The Fordham Chapter's notable programs included multiple collaborations on service with both campus and Bronx service organizations, organized 70 volunteers to visit retired Jesuits, and held two gatherings with University President Joseph McShane, SJ (Le Moyne '71) exclusively for members. Congratulations to Chapter officers Nazifa Nasim (Fordham '16), Nicole Benevento (Fordham '16), John Moriarty (Fordham '16), Margaret Fisher (Fordham '16), and Faculty Adviser Michael Trerotolo (Fordham '16).

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY MARYLAND

After University President Brian Linnane, SJ (Holy Cross '95), welcomed the Chapter to the Jesuit residence to kick off the year, the Loyola Maryland Chapter frequently collaborated with the Center for Community Service and Justice on service programs in the community. The Chapter hosted a panel of Jesuit alumni addressing how to live Jesuit values in the "real world" and held its annual spring lecture event. Congratulations to Chapter officers Scott Cannon (Loyola Maryland '16), Jamie Surgent-Nahay (Loyola Maryland '16), Michael Jones (Loyola Maryland '16), Brooke Dugan (Loyola Maryland '16), Briana Stuhlman (Loyola Maryland '16), Grace Giannattasio (Loyola Maryland '16), Faculty Adviser Frank Haig, SJ (Wheeling Jesuit '66), and Chapter Coordinator Anita Podles.

AΣN Board Secretary Eva Marie Carney presented the award to Chapter President Scott Cannon and Adviser Frank Haig, SJ.

INTRODUCING THE NEW SEELOS GRANT

Thanks to funding from the Blessed Francis X. Seelos, C.Ss.R, Fund, Alpha Sigma Nu was pleased to announce the Seelos Grant this spring, founded to promote Ignatian-inspired student leadership. The Seelos Grant removes financial barriers for student AΣN members who wish to participate in Ignatian leadership programs. The grants provide funding for student members' attendance with the intention that they enhance their skills as Chapter and campus leaders, change-makers and Jesuit collaborators. Student members can apply for a grant to cover costs of programs in line with the mission of AΣN.

This year, the Seelos Grant is helping student members attend the following programs:

Ignatian Justice Summit: Brings together students from Jesuit and other Catholic universities who are passionate about driving change for more socially just local and global communities. The program provides formation in the areas of leadership, social justice, and Ignatian spirituality. www.ignatiansolidarity.net/programs/university-leaders-summit

National Jesuit Student Leadership Conference: Gathers student leaders from various Jesuit schools and universities together to examine current student issues and explore ways to address them, strengthen leadership skills, and discover how to better serve their colleges and universities in the Jesuit tradition. www.njslc2017.com

Ignatian Family Teach-in for Justice: Annual gathering for members of the Ignatian family- Jesuit Institutions and larger church- to come together in the context of social justice and solidarity to learn, reflect, pray, network, and advocate together. www.ignatiansolidarity.net/iffj

Alpha Sigma Nu is proud to announce the eight current recipients of the Seelos Grant for 2017. These student members, representing seven Jesuit universities, will have the task of bringing back their experience and lessons to the local Alpha Sigma Nu Chapter. We look forward to hearing about their experiences and their Chapter events in the next school year.

Kevin Nguyen (Rockhurst '17) As a son of Vietnamese refugees, he looks forward to attending the IJS to meet other Jesuit student leaders, develop his advocacy skills, and learn how to promote respectful discourse.

Michael Harding (Fairfield '17) Chapter President in '17-18, he is looking forward to substantive discussions on service and leadership and hopes to use lessons from NJSCL to empower his Chapter members to act entrepreneurially and collaboratively.

Jose Aranda Alvarez (Loyola Andalucia '16) On the e-board next year, and having studied at both Marquette and Sogang, he is particularly interested in brainstorming about increasing the AΣN global connection and collaboration.

Megan Martinez (Regis '17) Megan plans to network with other Jesuit student leaders, learn from them, and continue these relationships beyond the conference. She hopes NJSCL provides her contacts and ideas she can use to benefit her Chapter.

Jeffrey Kopaniasz (Marquette '16) Chapter Alumni Relations Coordinator for '17-18, he looks forward to meeting other AΣN leaders and learning what makes their Chapters effective and how to be a catalyst for the growth of the Marquette Chapter.

Declan Murphy (Fordham '17) Chapter Secretary in '17-18, Declan is looking to maximize AΣN involvement at Fordham. He hopes to help develop a network of AΣN leaders who can share ideas and coordinate national and international events.

Maria Regla Villabos Ramila (Loyola Andalucia '16) On the e-board next year, Regla hopes to improve her leadership skills. She has studied at Marquette and ICAM-Loyola in France and wants to further understand different countries and cultures.

Matthew Civilette (Le Moyne '17) Chapter Vice-president in '17-18, he is looking forward to developing his leadership skills through a Jesuit lens, as well as learning how other Chapters increase member engagement.

LUNCH & LEARN

The Lunch & Learn webinar series for Alpha Sigma Nu members has proven to be a popular event. The second webinar took place on Thursday, March 30th and hosted speaker Tim Shriver, President of Jesuit Volunteer Corps. Mr. Shriver talked about what led him personally to the Jesuit Volunteer Corps and shared several stories from his time as president that highlight social justice, faith, and the unique attributes of Ignatian spirituality. If you missed it, you can still hear his talk! Go to www.alphasigmanu.org/news/video-from-lunch-learn-webinar.

Watch for news of the next webinar which will take place this fall.
